(Associated Press) of gifts including live lambs and rabbits.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 30.—Ethnographic parades in which the people were dressed in costumes of the different countries were the feature of the celebration for the centennial of the discovery of the Mississippi river at St. Louis. The parade was the largest ever seen in the city. It was held on the river front and the people were dressed in costumes of the different countries. The parade was the largest ever seen in the city. ## COMPARISON OF TWO U. S. FLEETS

(Associated Press) SAN FRANCISCO, July 30.—When the Atlantic fleet on its famous cruise around the world in 1908 was 141 days, 1 hour enroute from Hampton Roads, Va., to San Francisco. The new Pacific fleet now enroute from Hampton Roads is scheduled to arrive in San Francisco 27 days from the date of sailing. This is one of the interesting comparisons of the two fleets which have been made here.

The Atlantic fleet went around Cape Horn. The Pacific fleet comes through the Panama canal, not completed when the Atlantic fleet made its cruise.

The actual sailing time for the Atlantic fleet was 41 days, 19 hours. The Pacific fleet is expected to make the trip to San Francisco in about 18 or 19 days actual sailing time.

In 1908 the American navy had no airplanes or seaplanes. It had few destroyers and less submarines.

The Atlantic fleet comprised 15 battleships with a flotilla of torpedo boats. The new Pacific fleet approximates 156 vessels of all classes.

When Admiral Evans led his fleet in parade here in May, 1908, his flagship led but 42 vessels of all descriptions. President Wilson is scheduled to review a Pacific fleet of more than 150 vessels here in August of this year.

The old Atlantic fleet carried 14,000 men. The Pacific fleet will bring 25,000.

The Atlantic fleet was valued at approximately $100,000,000. The Pacific fleet represents expenditures of several times that amount.

PROHIBITION IS RICH MAN'S LAW

The Americans who believe in the right of the individual to his own property are indignant at the prohibition law in this country. They say the prohibition law is a rich man's law.

They say all the more so of the law which has been forced upon the people who do not believe in it. They say the prohibition law is a rich man's law.

The great majority of the weaklings in congress are drinking men. That great majority has no use for prohibition except for political purposes.

And they do not intend that "prohibition" shall be made effective against themselves. For, while their own cellars are stocked with liquors, they voted unanimously against the right to search!

Only three men could be found in the house of representatives to approve that "search" amendment to the enforcement bill. And these men do not drink.

Every other "prohibitionist" in the house that day voted a sanctuary for his own liquor cellar!

And in their own California, what do our people see?

A legislature against prohibition in its conscience and in its practice registering California as a prohibition state after her citizens had repudiated that doctrine at the polls by a sweeping majority!

Is it any wonder men and women are so indignant?

Is it any wonder the feeling of bitterness increases every day?

Is it any wonder a dangerous unrest is spreading among the working classes, as it is established that "prohibition" in America is a rich man's law which protects him in having and using all the liquor he and his friends can drink during the remainder of their lives, while it deprives the poor man of his glass of claret or his mug of beer?—Sacramento Bee.

THE TEACHERS' VACATION

People who imagine that the school teachers have a long vacation entirely devoted to rest, and who on that ground envy the schoolmaster's lot do not realize how the majority of them spend their time.

Their salaries have been so low that the greater part of them have had to work hard through the summer. Many of them are daughters of farmers. They return to help their mothers through the rush of the harvest season. Many wait on tables at summer hotels and boarding houses. Also many ambitious girls attend summer schools in the hope of fitting themselves for better positions. Instead of an array of fluffy summer clothes, their modest trunks are weighted down with ponderous volumes on pedagogy and psychology. It is not surprising that many teachers have nervous prostration.

They should not take life too seriously. They need all the fun they can get in holiday time.

CARSONITES PINCHED AT LAKE TAHOE

Word reached this city yesterday that a number of Carsonites, who have been running motor boats on Lake Tahoe, have been arrested for running the boats without a marine license. It is understood that a hearing will be had in this city.

As there is a fine attached to this violation of the federal regulations, it is stated that the Carsonites have been warned, there is likely to be some tall hustling among those who have been "pinched" by an inspector, who quickly took in the situation at Glenbrook.—Carson News.

The merchant and his clerk can work only eight to ten hours a day but advertising works all the 24 hours when the reading public is abed.
